In strategic coupling, Henry Wai-Chung Yeung examines economic development and state firm relations in East Asia focusing in particular on South Korea Taiwan and Singapore. As a result of the massive changes of the last twenty-five years, new explanations must be found for the economic success and industrial transformation in the region. State-assisted startups and incubator firms in East Asia have become major players in the manufacture of products with a global reach. Taiwan's Hon Hai Precision has assembled more than 500 million iPhones for instance, and South Korea's Samsung provides the iPhone's semiconductor chips and retina displays. Drawing on extensive interviews with top executives and senior government officials, Yeung argues that since the late 1980s, many East Asian firms have outgrown their home states and are no longer dependent on state support as a result. The developmental state has lost much of its capacity to steer and direct industrialization. We cannot read the performance of national firms as a direct outcome of state action. Yeung calls for a thorough renovation of the still-dominant view that states are the primary engine of industrial transformation. He stresses action by national firms and traces various global production networks to incorporate both firm-specific activities and the international political economy. He identifies two sets of dynamics in these national global articulations known as strategic coupling, coevolution in the confluence of state firm and global production networks, and the various strategies pursued by East Asian firms to attain competitive positions in the global marketplace as strategic business models are important to understand the transformative operations of an enterprise system for present and future competitiveness. Betz's exploration into both manufacturing and financial firms along with retailing firms and conglomerates broadens the business literature. Six months after its American introduction in 1985, the Yugo was a punchline. Within a year, it was a staple of late night comedy. By 2000, NPR's Car Talk declared it the worst car of the millennium, and for most Americans, that's where the story begins and ends. Hardly the story of a man who built it, the men who imported it, and the decade that embraced and discarded it.
events that produced the yugo yugoslav expert jason vuic uproariously tells the story of the car that became an international joke the american ceo who happens upon a yugo right when his company needs to find a new import or go under a state department eager to aid yugoslavia s nonaligned communist government zastava automobiles which overhauls its factory to produce an american ready yugo in six months and a hole left by detroit in the cheap subcompact market that creates a race to the bottom that leaves the yugo at the bottom in 1962 south korea assembled just 1 100 new automobiles by 1996 this total had soared to 2 812 714 what explains this remarkable growth the answer is complex and involves a combination of a supportive state timely technology alliances a skilled but historically low paid workforce aggressive pricing savvy entrepreneurs and fortuitous circumstances despite this amazing ascent comparatively little has been written about the korean auto industry in english in the first of a two volume set this 11 chapter book seeks to help fill this void by providing in depth examinations of all six of korea s automakers from their beginnings through 1996 uniquely written from the perspective of industry analysts at the time without knowledge of the asian fiscal crisis the book should prove informative to practitioners scholars and students interested in automotive history international political economy asian studies and more offers standard prices for cars pickups sport utilities and vans as well as detailed model histories certified used vehicle information and buying advice this book criticizes the widespread view that the 1997 asian crisis was due to crony capitalism and puts the blame instead on misguided liberalization it analyzes the case of korea s business conglomerates the chaebol with particular attention to the car industry to show how liberalization contributed to the crisis even at the level of the firm it shows how those firms that had developed innovative capabilities survived the crisis much better than those that had merely expanded into markets opened up by liberalization american business folklore is awash with the adventures of successful entrepreneurs still most of these stories are about americans neglecting important and courageous entrepreneurs from other countries made in korea recounts the story of how chung ju yung rose from poverty to build one of the world s largest and most successful building empires hyundai through a combination of creative thinking tenacity timing political skills and a business strategy that few competitors ever understood chung entered the shipbuilding business with no experience and went on to create the world s largest shipyard he began making automobiles when foreign experts unanimously predicted he would fail and he started a global construction company that has built some of today s greatest architectural wonders he even convinced the international olympic committee to select south korea over japan as the site for the highly successful 1988 olympics unlike most ceo s of major firms chung has always preferred the company of his workers to that of the global executive elite hard work creativity and a capacity to never give up this is the essence of chung s life in each of his ventures he exhibited a sheer determination to succeed regardless of the obstacles and he worked tirelessly to instil this drive in all of his employees even today in the midst of korea s worst economic crisis in over four decades chung s company is busy implementing plans to emerge as an even stronger contender in the world economy illustrated with 32 pages of colour photographs not previously seen in the west including photos of chung s recent historic visit to north korea in 1998 made in korea takes stock of chung s entire life highlighting both his contributions to society and the lessons his work can teach to aspiring entrepreneurs popular science gives our readers the information and tools to improve their technology and their world the core belief that popular science and our readers share the future is going to be better and science and technology are the driving forces that will help make it better popular mechanics inspires instructs and influences readers to help them master the modern world whether it s practical diy home improvement tips gadgets and digital technology information on the newest cars or the latest breakthroughs in science pm is the ultimate guide to our high tech lifestyle popular science gives our readers the information and tools to improve their technology and their world the core belief that popular science and our readers share the future is going to be better and science and technology are this book criticizes the widespread view that the 1997 asian crisis was due to crony capitalism and puts the blame instead on misguided liberalization it analyzes the case of korea s business conglomerates the chaebol with particular attention to the car industry to show how liberalization contributed to the crisis even at the level of the firm it shows how those firms that had developed innovative capabilities survived the crisis much better than those that had merely expanded into markets opened up by liberalization American business folklore is awash with the adventures of successful entrepreneurs. Still, most of these stories are about Americans neglecting important and courageous entrepreneurs from other countries. Made in Korea recounts the story of how Chung Ju Yung rose from poverty to build one of the world’s largest and most successful building empires, Hyundai, through a combination of creative thinking, tenacity, timing, political skills, and a business strategy that few competitors ever understood. Chung entered the shipbuilding business with no experience and went on to create the world’s largest shipyard. He began making automobiles when foreign experts unanimously predicted he would fail and went on to create the world’s largest shipyard. He began making automobiles when foreign experts unanimously predicted he would fail. He started a global construction company that has built some of today’s greatest architectural wonders. He even convinced the International Olympic Committee to select South Korea over Japan as the site for the highly successful 1988 Olympics. Unlike most CEO’s of major firms, Chung has always preferred the company of his workers to that of the global executive elite. Hard work, creativity, and a capacity to never give up is the essence of Chung’s life. In each of his ventures, he exhibited a sheer determination to succeed regardless of the obstacles and he worked tirelessly to instill this drive in all of his employees. Even today, in the midst of Korea’s worst economic crisis, Chung’s company is busy implementing plans to emerge as an even stronger contender in the world economy. Illustrated with 32 pages of color photographs not previously seen in the West, including photos of Chung’s recent historic visit to North Korea in 1998. Made in Korea takes stock of Chung’s entire life, highlighting both his contributions to society and the lessons his work can teach to aspiring entrepreneurs.
